PROJECTS

Tweeter - GitHub | Live

Twitter clone that allows you to post tweets and experience a web app with social media features

- Developed backend Rails API to store user content and built model self-relational relationships to allow users to follow other users and like individual tweets
- Leveraged React with Redux and Redux-Thunk to construct reusable components and actions
- Built custom back and front end user authentication by combining Rails conventions, Active Record, JWT Tokens, BCrypt, and customized React-Router protected components, making for a secure experience that conceals parts of the application for users without an active session.
- Implemented custom live search functionality allowing users to search for other users
